MESSAGE FROM THE RECTOR

There’s a line in one of our hymns that refers to church as a “school for the faithful” (Hymnal 51). I’ve always liked this image.

I think we can all agree . . . life can be complicated. Religion can be complicated. Church can be complicated. Being a religious person in today’s culture can be complicated. This is why the church is here to be present with you as you walk this journey. We know that on the journey, we will all encounter moments of learning, discovery, compassion, celebration, and yes, even heartache and confusion.

Someone in scripture once said that “to everything there is a season.” Certainly, there are different seasons in life. There are seasons to offer our gifts. There are also seasons during which we need the support and encouragement of our communities of faith.

In the pages of this directory are, we pray, opportunities for you to find connection to God, to neighbor, to self, and to the church.

Maybe this is the season to offer your gifts . . . a love of beauty or of music . . . a love of children, organization, or writing grants . . . a passion for justice or for teaching . . . a gift of listening or offering encouragement . . . a gift of coping with difficult or stressful situations (and people!).

Or, you may be in a season in which you need to rely on your faith community for support, guidance, and encouragement. You want to learn, be with others, or deepen your own spirituality. Whatever the case may be, we hope to be a school for the faithful and we hope that the pages of this directory will help you learn about what is available at St. Paul’s.

It takes all of us to fully be the body of Christ, and I’m thankful that God has called you to be a part of St. Paul’s.

Glory to God, whose power working in us can do infinitely more than we can ask or imagine (Ephesians 3:20)

See you in Church!
